

Project: 1.4.7 Image Artist Project Log

Please record what you did and when you did it using the table below. Please add a date and how long you work on a particular task. You must also include an image of where your current results are, even if they are the same as the previous entry. If you are working with a partner please make it clear as to who did what parts.

Problem Definition:

Client #2: Family

Frame options:

- simple border frame
- scrapbook type frame
- heart frame
- circle frame

Abstract shape options:

- put symbols indicating person/gender (if woman/child/man)
- smiley faces over the actual faces
- add stars as decoration all over the image
- add fake smile
- add cartoon characters(Hello Kitty, Winnie the Pooh, Clifford)

Brainstorm:

Project Log Entry	Progress Images
3/16 Monday Time spent: 2 hours I created a basis presentation for the project and set up an outline as to how the presentation will aesthetically look. I then determined which client I would use and brainstormed some frame and overlay options I could put on the image. I then finished the slide in the presentation delineating the client I chose and why. I finally determined the 4 images I want to use for this project.

3/18 Wednesday

Time spent: 3 hours

I was able to round all of the corners of the images. The process of rounding the corners was not able to work initially because Repl.it was not being very responsive so the code kept crashing. Eventually, however, the code worked. I spent a majority of the time deciphering the code. Eventually I was able to understand the code so I added smiley faces to hide the actual faces. I used a smiley face mask to layer on top of the original image. This edit could serve as a means of hiding one's face in a family photo if they do not like it or just as a way of maintaining one's privacy.

3/20 Friday

Times Spent: 2 hours

I added the rest of the symbols I wanted to add to the images. For the first family image I added the gender identities of the family as a personal token to the image. For the second image I added hearts above each of the family members heads that had images of what they love to do, again as a personalized touch to the image. For the last image I added stars in random areas to add to the aesthetics of the image, but this can also serve as a dual purpose for hiding any minor flaws or other people in the image if desired.

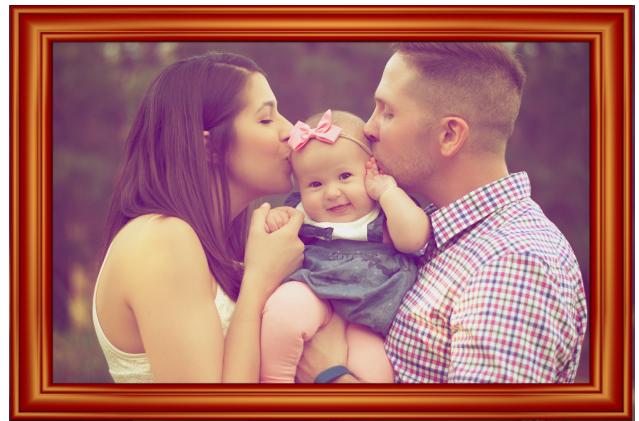

3/21 Saturday

Time Spent: 3 hours

I worked on adding a second edit for the family images 2-3 as well as the standard frames for all of the images. I decided to make the standard frame a sort of “fake” real frame to mimic the ones that would be used in real life if the family decided to frame the photo. For the second option edits I focused on using geometric shapes to cut on the images for fun patterns. I also decided not to use the rounded images and deleted them because they were taking up storage space.

3/22 Sunday
Time Spent: 2 hours
I worked on the presentation. I finished up the slides and added the citations for the images I used.

N/A